

Drawing the moments the app can't fill

Kudimata Securities is a Nigerian stock brokerage app. This document lists every illustration the product needs, the exact moment each one appears, and the words already on screen beside it — plus the house style, taken from Kudimata's own existing artwork rather than described from memory.

Prepared 31 August 2026

42 slots audited

39 pieces to commission

Canvas 960 × 960

01

The house style

These are real Kudimata illustrations, currently live on kudimata.app. They are the reference. Everything commissioned here should sit beside them without looking borrowed.

kyc - identity check

no-connection - failure state

no-report - empty state

learn - teaching

win - celebration

risk - ambition

launch — momentum

studying — learning

persona — identity

ipo — growth

A person is always in it

Every scene has a human being doing something. Nigerian figures — dark skin, natural hair drawn as solid black shape. Frequently seen from behind, over the shoulder, so the viewer stands where they stand rather than watching them.

Engagement particles

The signature. Tiny four-point sparkles, asterisks, hollow circles, short dashes and squiggles scattered around the subject. They carry the energy — a scene without them reads flat and dead. Denser around success, sparser around failure, never absent.

One prop, one idea

The figure interacts with exactly one thing: a phone, a browser panel, a rocket, a book, a plant, a document. Never a cluttered desk. The prop is what the screen is about.

Purple does the work, black does the weight

Clothing and large masses in the purple ramp; hair, trousers, shoes and outlines in near-black. That contrast is what makes these read at 160px on a phone.

Feet on a plinth

Figures stand on a soft pale-lavender ellipse or slab with a dark ground shadow. Nothing floats without reason — and when it does float (rocket, celebration), that's the point.

Transparent background

No baked-in background colour. The app places each illustration on its own plate, and light and dark mode use different ones. A white rectangle behind the art breaks dark mode.

Palette — exact values, taken from the existing files

Construction. 960 × 960 square canvas. 3px stroke weight at that size. Flat vector, no gradients except the occasional two-stop purple. Hand-drawn line quality — the strokes wobble slightly, they are not geometric. Delivered as SVG.

02

Why this commission exists

An audit of the app's 42 illustration files found that almost none of them are Kudimata's. They were sourced from a stock library and have been quietly setting the product's visual tone ever since.

1

of 42 illustrations is genuine Kudimata artwork

22

drawn on an 80 × 80 canvas — icon-grade, 12× smaller than Kudimata's

16

are orphaned: the file exists, no screen shows it

real moments in the app have no illustration at all

The size problem, plainly. Kudimata's own illustrations are drawn on a 960 × 960 canvas. The stock ones are drawn on 80 × 80 — roughly the detail budget of a toolbar icon, stretched to fill a 160px slot. That is why they look washed out and thin next to the real artwork, and it cannot be fixed by recolouring them.

Commission A — moments with no artwork

The highest-value work. These are real states a person hits in the app today that render bare text, or a small grey icon, or nothing. Each row is one illustration. The words quoted are already on the screen — the art sits above them.

MOMENT	WHEN IT HAPPENS	WORDS ALREADY ON SCREEN	WHAT THEY'RE FEELING
Camera won't open	During identity verification, the phone camera fails or is blocked	"Couldn't access the camera"	Real anxiety — a hard stop in the middle of proving who they are, with no way round it	First
No search results	Searching for a stock that isn't there	"No matches" · "Try a ticker like MTNN, GTCO or DANGCEM."	A dead end mid-task; they know what they want and the app doesn't have it	First
No bank linked	Wallet or withdrawal, before any bank account is added	"No bank accounts yet" · "Link a bank account to fund your wallet or withdraw."	Practical, task-focused — a door they need to open, not a failure	First
No dividends yet	Dividend history, before the first payout lands	"No dividends paid yet."	Quietly deflating — they came hoping to see money arrive	First
Bank list unavailable	The bank picker loads nothing	"No banks available."	Confusion — a form that is simply broken, with no explanation	First
No price alerts	My Alerts — the default state for most accounts	"No alerts yet" · "Set one from any asset's page, or start from something you already follow."	Neutral; a nudge toward a feature they haven't found	Second
Empty inbox	Notifications, nothing yet	"No notifications yet" · "Updates on your orders, wallet and price alerts will show here."	Calm — an inbox-zero moment, not a problem to solve	Second
Nothing in corporate actions	No rights issues, AGM votes or dividends on anything held	"Nothing here yet" · "Rights issues, AGM votes and dividends on companies you hold will show up here."	Expected and fine — most investors, most of the time	Second
Help search found nothing	Searching Help & Support	"No results" · "Try a different search term."	Friction while looking for an answer to a real problem	Second
Sector has no stocks	Markets, filtered to an empty category	"No assets found" · "There are no assets to show in this category right now."	Mild — they filtered a real market down to nothing	Second
Tax summary not ready	Before the first full tax year with a dividend has closed	"No annual tax summary yet — one is prepared automatically once your first full tax year with a dividend payment has closed."	Seeking reassurance: is this broken, or just not time yet?	Second

Tax notes not issued	Withholding tax credit notes, not yet live	"WHT credit notes aren't being issued yet..."	An awkward admission about their own tax paperwork	Third
No documents match	Statements, filtered by year or type with no match	"No documents match your search."	Minor — the documents exist, the filter hid them	Third
No market depth	Asset detail, no live buy/sell order data	"Depth unavailable" · "There's no live buy and sell order data for this stock right now."	Uncertainty — is the stock illiquid, or is the app broken?	Third

Three further empty states deliberately render nothing at all — the trending rail and recent searches on the search screen, and the open-complaints card. Those are intentional and need no artwork.

04

Commission B — replacing the stock artwork

These slots have art today, but it is the 80 × 80 stock set. Replacing them is what makes the app finally look like one product. Listed in the order a new investor meets them.

SLOT	WHERE IT APPEARS	WHAT IT NEEDS TO SAY
onboarding-welcome	The very first screen, before sign-up	Arrival. The single most important illustration in the product — it sets the tone before a word is read	First error	Every generic failure sheet in the app, plus the face-liveness failure	Something went wrong and it is recoverable. Reused more than any other file — must be calm, never alarming	First loading	Every pending state, and — wrongly — several static empty lists such as "No orders yet"	Waiting, with the sense that something is actually happening	First kyc-checking	"Checking your selfie" and "You're done. We're reviewing"	Patience. Their identity is being checked right now	First kyc-not-approved	Verification failed, with attempts remaining	Setback, not rejection. They can try again — the art must not feel like a verdict	First

empty-portfolio	Verified investor, no holdings yet	Anticipation. "Your investments will show here. Buy from ₦1,000."	First empty-wallet	No transactions yet	A wallet waiting to be used	Second milestone-first-trade	Celebration sheet the moment an order is placed	Genuine triumph — for many people this is the first share they have ever owned	Second security-alert	Sign-in from an unrecognised device	The one place the style turns sober. Serious, not friendly, still not frightening	Second portfolio-health	"Is my portfolio healthy?" prompt	Reflection, a check-up	Second not-found	A screen or record that isn't there	Lost, lightly — recoverable and a little wry	Second explain-this / explain-bull / explain-bear	The "Explain this investment" screen. The slot is already wired and passes no art today	Three pieces: a neutral explainer, a rising market, a falling market	Second email-sent	Password reset, email entry step	A code on its way	Third digest • comprehension	Currently unused; keep only if the features return	Confirm with the product owner before drawing	Third

Before drawing any of these, ask which are still needed. Sixteen of the 42 files in the app have no screen showing them — including a "maintenance" scene for a maintenance mode that does not exist, an "offline" scene for an app with no offline detection, a "first dividend" celebration that is never triggered, and a "security freeze" scene for a confirmation dialog that shows no artwork. Those should be cut from the commission, not redrawn.

05

Commission C — the investor questionnaire

Four questions the regulator expects a broker to ask before someone trades. They are currently out of the app and coming back, and each one wants its own illustration — the questions are dry, and the artwork is what carries a person through them. Question text below is exact.

01 Investment Experience

1. No experience (Beginner)
2. Limited experience — has bought basic stocks or mutual funds
3. Extensive experience — active trader, familiar with derivatives and leverage

Draw: the distance between a first-timer and a veteran. Someone at the foot of something they are about to climb. Not intimidating — the honest answer for most Kudimata investors is option one, and the art should make that feel like a fine place to stand.

02 Investment Objective

1. Capital Preservation — low risk, safety of principal
2. Balanced Growth — medium risk, growth and income
3. Aggressive Growth — high risk, maximum appreciation

Draw: what the money is for. A person holding something they are protecting, or reaching for something further off. Money as a means to a life, not a number on a chart.

03 Investment Horizon

1. Short-term — less than 1 year
2. Medium-term — 1 to 3 years
3. Long-term — more than 3 years

Draw: time. This is the question investors said they did not understand, so it is the one the illustration has to teach — a seed and a tree, a path with distance in it. Make the concept visible before the words are read.

04 "If my investment portfolio drops by 20% in a month, I will:"

1. Panic and liquidate all assets immediately
2. Do nothing and wait for recovery
3. View it as a buying opportunity and invest more

Draw: composure in a storm. A falling line, and a person deciding how to meet it. This is the emotional heart of the four — it should feel steady rather than scary, because the app's whole posture is that dips are normal.

05

Assessment complete

"Thanks — that helps us keep what you see here suited to you." Shown once, after the fourth answer.

Draw: a small, earned finish. Warmer and brighter than the four — this one sits on the gold plate rather than the purple. One piece only, not one per outcome: the app deliberately never tells anyone their risk profile, and the artwork must not imply a verdict either.

06

Delivery

- Format: SVG, one file per piece, transparent background, no embedded raster images.
- Canvas: 960 × 960 with an explicit `viewBox`, matching the existing Kudimata set.
- Safe area: the app crops to contain and pads by 28px. Keep meaningful content inside the middle 85%.
- Legibility: every piece is displayed at 120–200px tall on a phone. Check each one at 160px before delivering — detail that disappears there is wasted work.
- Both backgrounds: the art sits on near-white in light mode and on #26242A in dark mode. Dark ink on transparent is correct; it is plated in white where needed. Nothing should rely on a light background to be visible.
- Naming: keep the slot names in this document exactly — they are the filenames the app loads.
- Text: none. All copy is rendered by the app, in Nunito, and needs to be translatable.

Suggested order. Commission A "First" rows and the six Commission B "First" rows are the ones a new investor meets in their opening minutes — those thirteen change the product's feel more than everything else combined. The questionnaire set can follow, since those screens are not live yet.
